Telstra Broadcast Services

Purpose built media network with national reach

Telstra's Digital Video Network (DVN) is a dedicated high-capacity fibre network architected for real-time media delivery using industry standard media formats, designed for peak performance and reliability. The DVN media network platform enables contribution, distribution and interchange of content nationally, is connected into every major Australian broadcaster, stadium and production hub, and the Telstra Global Media Network for international contribution. Telstra has provided Digital Media Network services for the Australian media industry for over three decades with an ongoing roadmap of innovation to meet your current and future media carriage needs.

Keeping media content moving

Purpose built – Addresses media carriage needs of the media industry on dedicated high capacity fibre with robust architecture designed for peak performance and reliability with built in redundancy through dual fibre paths and updated onsite equipment with 'last mile' resilience.

Innovation in content sharing – The platform caters to an extended range of signal formats including HD, SD and ASI so you can acquire, share and distribute content in real time on a pay-per-use basis. Nonlinear transmission and powerful interchange capabilities have been introduced with the option of a global media switch for seamless international connectivity.

Increased control – A single web-based control centre provides unlimited 24/7 access to manage, monitor and control your video and data services. Our multi-tenanted software has accessible APIs for application development and enhancement to control backed by our expert support.
